The Charm and Beauty of Yesterday's Covered Bridges are Preserved Today

America's love affair with picturesque covered bridges can interfere with modern transportation needs. Proudly, Buchart Horn has been helping state highway officials preserve these beloved links to the past and provide modern transportation solutions at the same time. The firm has provided designs to preserve many early American covered bridges in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Innovative solutions have involved rehabilitation with original materials and reconstruction to install modern steel supports to increase load-carrying abilities. In all cases, Buchart Horn's designs preserved the historic charm and visual appeal for those who appreciate these transportation treasures.
